

About the Researchers and Editors

(in alphabetical order)

Cindy Darcy served on the U.S. Senate Indian Affairs Committee from 2005 until recently, first as Senior Policy Advisor and later as Deputy Staff Director under Chairman Byron L. Dorgan. Prior to her service on the Committee, she represented Indian and Alaska Native tribal governments on a broad range of public policy legislative issues and federal appropriations in private practice for a number of years.

Maria Elenas Frias received her BA in anthropology from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and begins work on her Master's/Ph.D. in anthropology in August 2008.

Amy Kolakowsky graduated with her MA degree in applied archaeology from Northern Arizona University in May 2008. She will begin her career search after returning from an archaeological field school this summer in Poland. She served as an intern in the NPS internship through the Student Conservation Association (SCA) to fulfill part of her MA requirements.

D. Bambi Kraus (Tlingit) serves as the president of the National Association of Tribal Historic Preservation Officers. She also worked for President Clinton's Initiative on Race and the National Indian Policy Center.

Dr. James Riding In (Pawnee) is an Associate Professor of American Indian Studies at Arizona State University, and is the editor of Wicazo Sa Review: A Journal of Native American Studies. He has served as a researcher for the Pawnee Nation of Oklahoma regarding repatriation matters since the late 1980s.

Pemina Yellowbird (Arikara-Hidatsa) has been working on issues related to the repatriation and reburial of Native dead and the protection and preservation of Native sacred and cultural places for nearly 25 years. She is the mother of four sons and grandmother to nine and is currently working to protect traditional cultural properties at home on the Ft. Berthold Reservation.

Patricia Zell served as the Staff Director/Chief Counsel of the U.S. Senate Committee on Indian Affairs for the last 19 years of her 25 years of service on the Committee. She is now engaged in the private practice of Federal Indian law as it affects Indian tribal governments, Alaska Natives and Native Hawaiians.
