

Danielle A. Simon, MA, RPA

Danielle Simon is the Compliance Manager for the Seminole Tribe of Florida and has worked for the Tribal Historic Preservation Office since November 2020. A Registered Professional Archaeologist with years of cultural resource management experience, Danielle earned a BA in Sociology/Anthropology at Florida International University and a MA in Anthropology at Florida Atlantic University before transitioning to historic preservation. Her primary purpose as Compliance Manager is to advocate for Tribal sovereignty through the interpretation and application of Federal, State, and Tribal laws to ensure the preservation of Indigenous knowledge and the Seminole past and present.