Sec. 2. That nothing herein shall be construed in any way impairing the right, title, and interest of the Navajo Tribe of Indians which they now have and hold to all lands and minerals, including oil and gas, and the surface use of such lands for agricultural, grazing, and other purposes, except as hereinafter defined; and said Tribe of Indians shall be, and is hereby, granted the preferential right, under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, of furnishing rations annually for the use of visitors to the monument.

Sec. 3. That the National Park Service, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, is hereby charged with the administration of the area of said national monument, so far as it applies to the care, maintenance, preservation and restoration of the prehistoric ruins, or other features of scientific or historical interest within the area, and shall have the right to construct upon the lands such roads, trails, or other structures or improvements as may be necessary in connection with the administration and protection of the monument.
Navajo Nation Moratorium

• In 1985, a resolution of the Resources Committee of the Navajo Tribal Council was passed and established a protection zone within the boundaries of Canyon de Chelly National Monument.

• This provided some protection of the canyon from activities and developments deemed to be a threat or an adverse impact.

• To remain in place until a “Joint Management Plan” between the Navajo Nation, BIA, and NPS could be developed and approved.
Canyon Threats

- Permit disputes
- Trash
- Constant conflict
- Ad hoc buildings
- Canyon entrance littered with signs, businesses, cars
- Frustrated residents
- LE jurisdictional concerns
Canyon Threats

- Residents allowing visitors access into archaeological sites
- Stray and starving dogs and horses
- Vender issues
- Difficulties in enforcement of laws
Planning Efforts

• Planning required concurrence by the National Park Service, Navajo Nation, and Bureau of Indian Affairs

• Because of the land status, all three entities have authorities and responsibilities within the canyon

• There is also a living community and agricultural land use within the park boundaries. Permittees within the canyon and others have a strong voice and wish to be part of the planning process.
Planning Efforts

- Canyon de Chelly had never had a General Management Plan
- In 1990 a planning effort to create a “Joint Management Plan” took place
- The Navajo Nation President did not sign
Values identified in public meeting:

- Family
- Beautiful, Divine Gift
- Tradition
- Center
- Farming
- Stories
- Homeland of Spirit People
- Connection to my past, land, people
- Place that brings life to me, trees, animals
- Spiritual wholeness
- Awesome blessing.
Presentation to Resource and Development Committee of Tribal Council

• In 2015, NPS was approached by the local council delegate Leonard Pete to do a presentation and tour of the canyon for the Resource and Development Committee of Tribal Council.

• Values of the canyon and threats to the canyon were identified.

• All agreed that it was time to renew efforts toward planning.

• The new head of the Department of Natural Resources, Bidtah Becker, was assigned to work with BIA and NPS to produce a plan.
Renewed Planning Efforts

- Navajo Nation has provided $10,000 for development of a “Shared Vision Statement”
- BIA passed $25,000 to Navajo Nation to complete “Strategic Agreement between BIA, NPS and Navajo Nation for Cooperative Management of Canyon de Chelly”
- PMIS project 210992
The Canyon de Chelly Vision

To respectfully share stewardship of Canyon values, and to protect and preserve its beauty, resources, and culture for the future - hózhǫ̀ dooleeł.

Next Steps...

- Multijurisdictional approach
- Need for facilitated process and assistance from other associations.
- Historically the Navajo Nation has lost opportunities because the federal government made decisions without truly collaborating with the tribe.
- Government to government relationship is not just a “check the box” process.
- The modern framework of multijurisdictional authority means we have to address the complexity of management of the canyon so that we serve the resource and not the bureaucratic needs of multiple jurisdictions.
- Having all entities involved in management is more complicated but, in so doing, we will achieve a better result.
- Secure funding for a facilitator and for the “Plan.”
- Develop plan by summer of 2019.
